INTERNATIONAL JOURNAL OF TRANSPERSONAL STUDIES

The Australian Journal of Transpersonal Psychology which has been in existence since 1981, has, as of June 1993, become the International Journal of Transpersonal Studies. IJTS is an independent journal which is published semi-annually. The aim of the Journal has always been to provide a source where persons interested in transpersonal theory or practice can share their developing ideas and integrative insights. The editors believe that the name change will indicate to readers that relevant manuscripts from different disciplines (Biology, Physics etc) are not only being received, but are welcomed.

The Journal publishes theoretical articles, practical articles, personal essays, book reviews, special interviews, empirical research and case studies and provides a forum in which readers are encouraged to discuss emerging points of view. IJTS welcomes contributions relating to the journey of the 'transcendent self' towards the realization of 'unity consciousness'.

For those wishing to submit articles, etc., it is requested that, if possible, they be submitted on disk, Word Perfect 5.1, as well as in manuscript form and that the following format be used:

Top Margin: 1"
Bottom Margin: .5"
