

1-1-1998

About Our Contributors

Philippe L. Gross

S. I. Shapiro

Follow this and additional works at: <http://digitalcommons.ciis.edu/ijts-transpersonalstudies>

Part of the Philosophy Commons, Psychology Commons, and the Religion Commons

Recommended Citation

Gross, P. L., & Shapiro, S. I. (1998). Gross, P. L., & Shapiro, S. I. (1998). About our contributors. International Journal of Transpersonal Studies, 17(1), 97–98.. International Journal of Transpersonal Studies, 17 (1). Retrieved from <http://digitalcommons.ciis.edu/ijts-transpersonalstudies/vol17/iss1/10>

This work is licensed under a Creative Commons Attribution-Noncommercial-No Derivative Works 4.0 License.

This Article is brought to you for free and open access by the Journals and Newsletters at Digital Commons @ CIIS. It has been accepted for inclusion in International Journal of Transpersonal Studies by an authorized administrator of Digital Commons @ CIIS. For more information, please contact digitalcommons@ciis.edu.

About Our Contributors

Ralph Augsburger, Associate Academician in Art, whose cartoonwork appears in this issue, lives in Geneva, Switzerland. After completing his studies at L'École des Beaux-Arts of La Chaux-de-Fonds, he dedicated himself to engraving and painting. He has been honored with many awards — including the 1st prize of the city of Geneva for watchmaking, jewelry design, and diamond-setting (1961), the 1st prize of la Palette Carougeoise (1977), and the 1st prize of Aart's Masters Paris Monaco (1996). In 1996 he became Associate Academician in art at the International Academia Greci Marino. His paintings have been exhibited world-wide including Basel, Geneva, Los Angeles, Monaco, New York, Paris, Sidney, Tahiti, Tokyo, and Zurich. His work can be sampled on the Web at: <http://www.swissart.ch/augsburger>

Author's address: Rue Liotard 11, 1202 Genève, Switzerland.

Richard Booth, Ph.D., is Professor of Psychology in the Department of Social and Behavioral Studies, Black Hawk College, Quad-Cities Campus, Moline, Illinois, USA. He also maintains a part-time psychotherapy practice. His research and publication interests include the study of loneliness, cross-cultural psychology, and alternative methods of healing.

Author's address: Department of Social and Behavioral Studies, Black Hawk College, Quad-Cities Campus, Moline, Illinois 61265, USA.

Margaret Coberly, Ph.D., R.N., is an independent nurse-consultant and researcher. She received her doctorate in psychology from the University of Hawai'i where she also taught courses on death and dying. The author's main interests are in gerontology and thanatology, and she co-founded a company in Honolulu that develops and manages carehomes for frail elderly and hospice patients. Her research and teaching have focused on the transpersonal dimensions of hospice care and education. She has authored several publications on the Tibetan Buddhist theory of death and dying and its applications to Western understanding and care of the dying. Dr. Coberly currently resides on the central coast of California with her son. Author's address: 1040A Iverson Street, Salinas, California 93901, USA.

Don Diespecker, Ph.D., the founding editor of this journal, is, in his own words: "a recovering iconoclast, faltering ideologue, and extremist psychologist. He writes for the hell of it, and occasionally gets published."

Author's address: P.O. Box 297, Bellingen, New South Wales 2454, Australia.

Herbert Guenther, Ph.D., was born in Bremen, Germany, received his Ph.D. in Indian languages, philosophy, and literature from Munich University in 1939, and his Dr. phil. habil. from Vienna University (Austria) in 1943. In 1950, he moved to India to teach at the University of Lucknow and the Varanaseya Sanskrit Vishvavidyalaya, where he was instrumental in introducing Tibetan studies on a non-sectarian basis. In 1964, he was invited to Canada to chair the newly established (now defunct) Department of Far Eastern Studies at the University of Saskatchewan in Saskatoon. In 1984, he retired as professor emeritus with the honorary degree of D.Litt. He continues research in his chosen fields of interest. The author is married and has two married daughters.

Author's address: 1320 13th Street East, Saskatoon, Saskatchewan S7H 0C6, Canada.

S. I. Shapiro, Ph.D., teaches courses on Eastern and Western approaches to the psychology of death and dying at the University of Hawai'i with hospice nurses and administrators Margaret Coberly and Barbara Shirland. A special interest has been the potential for transpersonal experiences during the dying trajectory. The author claims to have recently undergone several NLEs (near-life experiences).

Author's address: Department of Psychology, 2430 Campus Road, University of Hawai'i, Honolulu, Hawai'i 96822, USA.

T. R. Soidla, D.Sc., Ph.D., was born in Rakvere, Estonia, graduated from Tartu University, and received his degrees in biology (genetics) from Leningrad (now St. Petersburg) University. He has published more than 80 papers devoted to molecular genetics, nucleotide sequence analysis, and (since 1992) transpersonal studies. He serves as an editor for the Journal of Mind and Behavior and the International Journal of Transpersonal Studies, as well as the co-editor of the latter's series, Voices of Russian Transpersonalism. In 1997, he coedited Everything is According to the Way: Voices of Russian Transpersonalism (Brisbane, Australia: Bolda-Lok Publishing). In 1999, Soidla will be a Visiting Scholar at the University of Hawai'i.
Author's address: Institute of Cytology, Tikhoretsky Avenue 4, St. Petersburg 194064, Russia.
E-mail: tsoidla@link.cytspb.rssi.ru

Charles T. Tart, Ph.D., is a Core Faculty Member at the Institute of Transpersonal Psychology and Professor Emeritus of Psychology at the University of California at Davis. Recently he was the first holder of the Bigelow Chair of Consciousness Studies at the University of Nevada at Las Vegas. He is internationally known for research with altered states of consciousness, transpersonal psychology, and parapsychology. His thirteen books include two classics, Altered States of Consciousness and Transpersonal Psychologies. Two recent books, Waking Up and Living the Mindful Life, synthesized Buddhist, Sufi and Gurdjieffian mindfulness training ideas with modern psychology. His latest book, Body Mind Spirit: Exploring the Parapsychology of Spirituality, explores the scientific foundations of transpersonal psychology to show it is possible to be both a scientist and a spiritual seeker.

Author's address: Institute of Transpersonal Psychology, 744 San Antonio Road, Palo Alto, CA 94302.
E-mail: cttart@ucdavis.edu

Miles A. Vich, D.H.L., has worked in the field of transpersonal psychology since its founding in the 1960s. He is the current editor of the Journal of Transpersonal Psychology and Executive Director of the Association for Transpersonal Psychology.

Author's address: P.O. Box 3049, Stanford, California 94309, USA.